

DIAGNOSTIC EXAMS

The Graduate School does not require programs to administer diagnostic examinations. However, some programs require that new students take a diagnostic exam given and evaluated before the close of the drop/add period. Diagnostic exams serve to identify deficiencies requiring pre-requisite course work, acceptability of any transfer credit, and/or inform the Plan of Study.