

TIME LIMIT EXTENSION

If there are exceptional circumstances that prevent a student from completing their degree by the final time limit, they may petition for an extension to the maximum time limit. The petition must include a timeline of progress toward degree with specific steps to be completed in each semester of the extension period. If approved, failure to adhere to the timeline each semester may result in dismissal prior to the end of the extension period.

Students in doctoral degree programs must already be admitted to candidacy to request a time limit extension.
